These injuries, though slight cause no little apprehension, as the team wishes to be in prime condition it forms the stigmn of the defeat at the hands of Hampton. The practice games last week included one hard fought one with the Fredricksburg Ghants, a strong amateur team. This contest went for ten innings, and ended with a tie score of 4 to 4. Includentally, it may be mentioned that one Thompson, from Mississippi struck out twelve men, and was replaced by Jasper in the tenth, who struck out, without ceremony, the first two men up, while the third retired on a pop fly.

Owing to the popularity of the visiting collegians, a large representation from fandom will witness the mame on Thursday afternoon. Lincoln comes to Hichmord for another game with Union on next Tuesday.

Judge T. R. B. Wright, of Twelfth
Circuit, Dies at Home in Essex.

Thomas Roane Barnes Wright, son of Captain William Affred Wright and Charlotte, his wife, was born in Tappahannock, Va. His father was the eldest son of Edward and Mary Pitts
Wright, of Wrightsville, King and Queen County and grandson of William Wright, who, with two brothers, James and Thomas, emigrated from Scotland, early in the seventeenth century, and took up large traces of ind tury, and took up large tracts of had in Essex, and the borders of King and Queen. His mother was the youngest laughter of the late Rebecca Roane Carnes, of Richmond County. He thus numbered among his ancestors, ardent soldiers of the Revolution and eminent builsts of the later times or ther was a soldler in the War of 1812.

By birth and heredity, Judge Wright came from a line of able lawyers and arists on both sides. The Roanes ound by the unseen crimson thread of lood and kinship with the Ruilins, Ritchies and Brockenboroughs, are lined descendants on the mother's side, and they have adorned the bench of the highest court of this and other Commonwealth's, and have been con-Commonwealth's, and have been conspicuous and distinguished in journalism and statecraft. He married Miss Margaret Davidella Preston, of Lewisburg, W. Va., on November 29 1876, whose parentage and ancestry point to the Prestons, Creighs, Stuarts and Lewises of Virginia and West Virginia. The children born of them are: Peeston Wright, Jeanette Creigh Wright, Charlotte Barnes Wright, Margaret David-Wright, Jeanette Creigh Wright, Churlotte Barnes Wright, Margaret Davidella Wright, Thomas Roane Barnes
Wright and William Alfred Wright.
He was educated at Fleetwood
Academy, King and Queen County, under Oliver White: and at Hanover Academy, under Colonel Lewis Minor

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM

Sterling C. London.

HIS MANY FRIENDS THROUGHOUT the State learned with sorrow of the recent death of STERLING C. LONDON, which occurred at his home in Roanoke on the afternoon of March 29, following a brief illness.

Mr. London came of an old Virginia family. He was born in Richmond sixty-two years ago, and was the son of John James London and the nephew of Daniel H. London, both prominent business men of that day, the early life was spent in Richmond and at the country plantation, "Soldiers' Joy," in Nelson County, the was educated at the Virginia Military institute, and married Miss Rebecca White, of Lexington, Va. The first part of his married life was spent in Nelson, but in 1889 he moved with his wife and children to Roanoke and became identified with the Magic City in her early history. At the time of his death there were few men in Roanoke better known, and none inore highly respected and more truly beloved. He was a Virginia gentleman of the old school, kind, courteous and gentle, and many a cloudy day brightened in the lives about him by his considerate thought of others. He had that intensely sympathetic nature which, when coupled with a strong, manly character, forms such a charming combination, and none came in contact with his daily life without rendering him the tribute of love.

He is survived by one brother, Lewis P. London, of Roanoke; one half-brother, R. M. Echols, of Bristol, Teun, and three children—Lila White London, of Farmville; Wilhelming Paleske London, of Roanoke, and Irvine McCue London, recently of Roanoke, but at present of Oakland, Cal.

For the past eight or ten years Mr. London's health has been gradually failing, but the call was not expected so soon, and the news of his death came as a shock to many of his friends.
